OFC 2024 EXHIBITOR PR TOOLKIT

TECHNICAL CONFERENCE: 24-28 MARCH
EXHIBITION: 26-28 MARCH

2024 OFC Exhibitors,

OFC provides exhibitors the unique opportunity to get their products, solutions and executives in front of members of the media and analyst community from around the world. OFC is the most important optical networking event, making it an unparalleled resource for media/analysts to meet with, interview, cover, network and develop stories and reports about the companies, individuals and organizations making news at OFC.

According to a survey of attending media and analysts, 100 percent of respondents felt that attending OFC provided them with key information otherwise not available and 67 percent felt that no other industry event offers the same or more value regarding optical communications than OFC.

This toolkit contains all the information you need to make the most of OFC 2024—from free PR opportunities to the pre-registered media/analyst list to how to post news releases. If you have any questions, concerns or ideas, please don't hesitate to contact us at media@ofcconference.org.

Whether this is your first, your 10th or your 20th OFC, the OFC Public Relations Team is here to support you and your organization!

I. Media Relations Program

Register as a PR representative

Register your organization's PR and/or marketing contact to receive the OFC PR Team newsletters, deadline reminders, media opportunities and the advanced pre-registered media and analyst list. Complete the form here.

Working with the media and analyst community

One of the first steps in planning public relations activities for a conference and exhibition is to develop a media strategy. Once the initial planning has begun and product/solution/partnership announcement decisions have been made, creating a strategy document to focus your PR plans is critical. A media strategy is beneficial if you are planning to launch a new product or make a significant announcement.

A media strategy is a plan that contains the following information (and sometimes more):

- Messages for all event communications and activities
- Statement of PR goals and objectives for the show
- Announcement schedule
- If launching a product or significant announcement, statement of PR goals and objectives for specific announcements (if the announcement is significant enough, you may wish to write a separate strategy for each announcement)
- Target media and analysts for briefings
- Recommendations and requests for company spokespeople
- Media kit components

Click here to see a sample media strategy.

Tips for scheduling interviews; background briefing materials

OFC is a news-making event. Be a part of it. Communicate your news and expertise with the key media and analysts that cover OFC. Take advantage of the opportunity to meet them for an interview, briefing or product demonstration. Keep in mind that media and analysts' calendars book up extremely fast – so PLAN AHEAD. Please register as a PR representative to receive the pre-registered media and analyst list as soon as it is available and target those who plan to participate in OFC.

The best way to work with the media and analyst community is to take the time to understand their coverage area, editorial approach and audience in order to target only those who cover your technology/industry space.

It's critical to be prepared to communicate your story in a manner that best meets the needs and style of the reporter or analyst. While most of them have their own style, we've developed these guidelines to provide a general overview of how to maximize your time with them. Click here for interview tips.

Media kit materials: explanation/overview and tips

We strongly encourage our exhibitors to post their media kits and media information on their websites.

A media kit provides vital background information, including an overview of your company, its management, significant milestones and recent news. It is a tool that can be used to communicate news and key messages, garner interest in your company, complement a media briefing or follow up with a reporter or analyst.

Recommended elements include:

- Backgrounder – background information on your company, its history, mission, value proposition, etc.
- Fact Sheet – one-page snapshot of your company, including management team, mission, corporate address, funding/investors (if private), stock symbol (if public), public relations contact.
- Management Bios – Biographical details for key members of your company’s management team.
- Product/Service Overview – Overview of the company’s product and service portfolio.
- News Releases – Current and significant company announcements.
- Other elements often found in media kits include product data sheets, white papers, product photos and PR contact information.

Pre-registered media and analyst list

The pre-registered media and analyst list includes contact information for the editors, reporters and analysts representing national and international trade and business outlets and analyst firms. This list will be available in early February. To request a copy of the list, please complete the Exhibitor PR Contact Form. Note: the list will only be available to exhibiting companies and their PR agencies.

OFC Conference app

Download the free OFC Conference app to help plan your OFC experience. Search for technical presentations; explore the list of exhibitors and programs; and network with attendees.

II. Free PR Opportunities

News release posting

Are you announcing new products? Partnerships? Solutions? Share the news for FREE with OFC media, analysts and attendees - exhibitor news releases (up to 500 words, with a 100-character headline limit) submitted online will be included on the OFC website Media Center, where the PR team directs media and analysts for industry and show-related news. News releases will also be promoted via X (@ofcconference, #OFC24).

White paper posting

Maximize exposure for your company's white papers. Submitted white papers will be posted on the OFC website and promoted on Twitter and LinkedIn. To submit your white paper, please forward it as a PDF to ofc@wilkinson.associates. White papers will be accepted through 07 March 2023.

Guest blog submissions

Promote your company's expertise by contributing to the OFC conference blog. Please contact Leah Wilkinson at ofc@wilkinson.associates for more information and blog entry guidelines. We can work with you to determine an appropriate blog topic - examples include viewpoints on the state of the industry, perspectives on exhibiting, hot topic areas (e.g., SDN, 800G, quantum computing, NFV, co-pacing, linear drive optics, data center, cloud computing, optical packet switching), etc. The blog is actively promoted to all attendees and prospective attendees. Here are a few examples.

OFC FIRST NEWS: New product preview

Are you planning to launch/show a new product, service or solution during OFC? Don't miss an opportunity to have it included in the OFC First News guide. OFC First News is a comprehensive guide to new product, service, partnership and company announcements distributed to media and analysts leading up to OFC for writing their pre-show coverage and scheduling briefings during the event. This guide allows exhibitors to provide media and analysts advance information on corporate announcements leading up to and during the event. In addition to distributing the guide to registered media and analysts, OFC partners with leading technology analysts to review the announcements and provide members of the media with an exclusive, real-time analysis of the industry trends and technologies announced during OFC.

Appropriate information includes company, customer and partner announcements; new product announcements; product enhancements; research initiatives, etc. We will distribute the OFC First News guide to pre-registered media and analysts communicating exhibitor news and events.

OFC First News submissions can be made through the online form. Please direct any questions to ofc@wilkinson.associates.

OFC First News will be distributed on 15 March (subject to change).

On-Site Publicity Opportunities

- OFC media/analyst panel

Attendance at this event is restricted to media and analysts only. Please note the timing of this event when scheduling your company's PR activities.*

Tuesday, 26 March, 12:00

- Breakfast briefings

San Diego Convention Center

Wednesday, 27 March, 08:00

Interested in introducing your company to industry media and analysts? Want to secure one-to-one face time for your CEO, product engineer or technical expert with the media, but not sure how? Breakfast Briefings are for you. Some of the industry's top media and analysts have allocated their time to meet with exhibitor representatives participating in this program. Additional information regarding briefings and details on how to sign up for spots will be available in the PR Team newsletters in late January (make sure you've completed the Exhibitor PR Contact Form so you receive the team newsletters). Once again, a limited number of briefing slots are available, and priority will be given to smaller companies.

The Media Work Room is where members of the media and analyst community may work uninterrupted — filing stories, making calls, reviewing exhibitor media kits, and more. Access to the Media Work Room is restricted to registered media/analysts and official OFC staff.

News conference room

San Diego Convention Center

Space is available in the Media Center for exhibiting companies to host news conferences. For details and to reserve the room, please visit the OFC website.

Interview/briefing room

San Diego Convention Center

OFC offers a semi-private room for booking one-on-one interviews and/or briefings with media and analysts. Please note that this room is to be used for media/analyst interviews only. Access is restricted to media/analysts and preapproved exhibiting company contacts. Rooms are reserved on a first-come, first-served basis. To book this room, please email ofc@wilkinson.associates.

IV. Social Media

OFC has a very active social media community, including media, analysts and industry thought leaders. Don't miss the opportunity to raise your company's visibility among media, analysts and OFC attendees. Get active on OFC's social media platforms.

- Twitter

Is your company one of OFC's 4,100+ followers on X? If not, join the community now @ofcconference. In addition to posting and re-tweeting industry news, we provide updates and PR opportunities via Twitter. Don't miss out on important OFC news and updates #OFC24.

- LinkedIn

Follow and engage on the OFC LinkedIn page to connect with thousands of other optical networking professionals, media, analysts and industry insiders who are planning to attend. The OFC page continues to grow and be a leading source of information on the conference. Help drive industry thought and engagement - be sure to tag the page when you post your company news, blogs and other content.

- YouTube

The OFC YouTube channel features videos and content from previous events and previews of hot topics for the 2024 conference. Visit regularly for plenary interviews, discussions with session chairs and insight into the key issues and trends you will learn more about at OFC. Have your own YouTube channel? Be sure to promote your videos leading up to, during and after OFC by posting them to the OFC Twitter channel, and submit them to the OFC PR team for posting to OFC's LinkedIn and YouTube channels.
